Were you ever bored by any of the books that you were required to read in high school? Here's your chance to make a difference for future B.S.H.S. students. This summer, your job is to find and read a work of literature to add to the school's curriculum. Your task is as follows:

1. Determine which kind of book would be most interesting and appropriate for high school students.

2. Here are some suggestions to help you find a great book:
   a) Interview someone whose opinion you value (e.g. a respected friend, relative, or teacher). Ask him/her what his/her favorite books are.
   b) Read another book by an author you like.
   c) Brainstorm a list of your favorite movies. Use the Internet or go to the library to determine which of these movies was derived from a book. Read the book version.

2. While reading, take notes and annotate your book with Post-Its.

3. Bring the book and your notes to school in September. Be prepared to write a letter to the school board explaining why your chosen book should be included in the curriculum.

Your choices will be given strong consideration by the district. Perhaps your legacy will be the addition of a new title to be taught in English classes.
